

MRS. GEO. GOULD'S LIFE IN PERIL

Thrown with Daughter and a Friend in a Carriage Over Embankment, but Fortunately Escapes Without Injury.

BRIDGE, N. Y., June 6.—Mrs. George Gould, her daughter Marjorie, and Miss Cortese, a friend of Miss Marjorie, had a thrilling experience while driving over a Catskill road.

They left Furlough Lodge, the mountain home of the Goulds, early in the afternoon. A mile from the lodge one of the horses of their team lost its footing on the shelf road and falling, carried the other with it, and the carriage went tumbling down the embankment, some twenty feet. It turned over and finally rested against a tree. The three women were thrown out, and strangely escaped injury of any kind. Avery, the coachman, was pinned between the tree and the carriage and his shoulder was dislocated.

Mrs. Gould, her daughter and their guest were cool in the face of danger, assisted the coachman to get free, and then walked back to the lodge.

GAS KILLS ONE MAN AND OVERCOMES HIS WORKMATE

Two tailors, who slept as watchmen, in the factory of Max Braslowitz, on the fifth floor at No. 309 Grand street, where they were employed, were overcome by illuminating gas early to-day, one fatally and the other so badly that his condition is serious.

The dead man was Andrew Serholtank, forty years old, and the survivor is Tiowil Liatwan, thirty-five, who is in Gouverneur Hospital. Both came to New York a few months ago, leaving their families in Russia till they could accumulate enough money to bring them here.

It is thought that the escape of the gas was accidental. Patrolman Miller, of the Eldridge street station, broke in the door and found Serholtank and Liatwan lying under a partly opened window with gas escaping from a jet directly over their heads.

It is supposed the men were overcome by the gas, perhaps while at work. Possibly they fell asleep at their benches, where they were found, from exhaustion and the rising wind blew out the gas flame or the light may have been extinguished by a cutting off of the pressure.

Making the Most of Life

A Serge Suit Adds to Life's Comfort in Summer.

A Serge Suit is the logical, practical suit for Summer. It adds to a man's comfort, and if it's a Wm. Vogel & Son serge suit it will add to his appearance. The serge which we put into our suits is a hard twisted, thoroughly shrunk fabric, not warm and woolly; the colors are absolutely fast, impervious to the elements.

Here are Serge Suits at from $15 to $25, fashioned by our own tailors, who have the art of fine tailoring at their finger tips. By their cleverness and talent they endow these serge suits with an individuality foreign to usual ready-for-wear suits; they give them shape-retaining qualities without adding superfluous weight. All of these serge suits have our "Concave" shoulder and our "Closefitting" collar.

We maintain in blue, black and gray serge—suits in single and double-breasted sacks, in the conventional and new long models, with wide angular lapels and deep side or centre vents. Serge Suits $15 to $25.
